ABOUT BANCAT

BANCAT is a non-profit organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health issue in Bangladesh through prevention, education, advocacy, and care services, with its core mission to reduce suffering and raise awareness about cancer.

BANCAT's cancer community development in Bangladesh focuses on three core areas.

 Nationwide Cancer Awareness targets youths, professionals, and rural communities through roadshows and awareness sessions, seeking collaboration with educational institutions and corporations.

 Holistic Care for Underserved Cancer Patients revolves around Mosabbir Alok Nibash, an 85-bed cancer care home providing comprehensive support with plans for a 250-bed cancer care village requiring resources from various sectors.

 Mental Wellness of the Cancer Community addresses mental health support through Alokon, funded by corporate CSR initiatives and individual contributions, aiming to create a supportive environment for the entire cancer community in Bangladesh.

ALOK KATHA

The story of life in every stitch

BANCAT has also placed a strong emphasis on mental health within the cancer community. At a recent gathering, the organization introduced Alok Katha, a new initiative designed to provide emotional and mental support to cancer patients and their families. Alok Katha, which embodies the Caregiver archetype, creates a platform for sharing inspirational stories and reflection while offering participants a therapeutic outlet through hand embroidery. While Alok Katha currently focuses on embroidered textiles like Nakshi Katha, we plan to expand into a range of handcrafted products in the future. All proceeds from Alok Katha, like selling, will go directly towards the rehabilitation of the patients at Mosabbir Alok Nibash. This initiative enables patients and caregivers to express their emotions and connect through their shared experiences, fostering a sense of community and understanding.

ALOKON

A Mental Wellness Haven

BANCAT has launched Alokon, a dedicated mental health center. Alokon provides emotional and psychological support to cancer patients and their families, especially those from privileged backgrounds. The revenue generated from Alokon's services is used to fund rehabilitation programs for underserved patients, ensuring financial
